Rocko:

Do you have the information from those test holes for both the depth and actual location of the water main to verify it was installed per plan and that it fall within the described easement? When Swartz Exc. dug previously to install the water service and sanitary lateral for a prior house, the 30" Wm trench was not exactly as staked (or scaled).

But more importantly I think Jack Braun is concerned with you giving us the okay to cross the line.....

Rocko;

The preexisting easement over the City of Canandaigua Water Transmission main is vague at best. We are attempting to find a meets and bounds description of our easement, but we do not think they exist. This would allow us to verify the watermain location with regards to your individual building lots.

Therefore, to expedite this; the City could perform the utility stakeout to locate the watermain if you care to perform the legal meets and bounds survey description and filing.
